Hanrahan Golf School announces Director of Instruction: Ryan DeHaan

FORT COLLINS, COLO., April 6, 2009 – The Hanrahan Golf School is proud to introduce Ryan DeHaan as the Director of Instruction.

DeHaan has been in the golf industry for 15 years. After graduating from the University of Northern Iowa in 1996, DeHaan got his start in the industry in nearby Waterloo, Iowa. DeHaan has always had a passion for teaching, and it was working under Andy Devine, a well-respected and award-winning golf professional and former instructor at the John Jacobs Golf School, that he was able to hone his skill of teaching others. DeHaan moved to Colorado in 2001 to work with John Hanrahan at the Fort Collins Country Club.

DeHaan's ultimate goal is for each student that comes through The Hanrahan Golf School to enhance their knowledge of the sport and succeed to the best of their ability. DeHaan is also an advocate for life-long learning, and continues to enable his own learning process by attending various teaching seminars from the best in the business.

Whether a player is a single digit, high handicapper or beginner, DeHaan will work with the player to accomplish golf goals and provide a positive learning experience.

Located at the Fort Collins Country Club, 1920 Country Club Road, and open to the public, The Hanrahan Golf School is centered on the idea that there is a successful golfer in each and every player that walks through the door. With over 50 years of combined experience among the instructor team, The Hanrahan Golf School's cutting-edge technology offers programs and lessons that are geared toward achieving personal goals – whether it's learning proper swing techniques, increasing the length of your drive or improving your handicap – the Hanrahan Golf School aims to bring out the best in every player.
