Hanrahan Golf School now open to the public aiming to bring out the best in each golfer

FORT COLLINS, COLO., March 17, 2009 - It's taken a year, but the Hanrahan Golf School (HGS) is open to the public and located at the Fort Collins Country Club, 1920 Country Club Road.

John Hanrahan, The owner of the Hanrahan Golf School, has been in the golf business for more than 30 years. It has always been his love of the game, and his desire to pass that on, that drives him to teach others. The Hanrahan Golf School instructors combined have over 50 years of experience and have centered the school on the idea that there is a successful golfer in each and every player that walks through the door.

The programs and lessons offered are geared toward achieving personal goals – whether it's learning proper swing techniques, increasing the length of your drive or improving your handicap – the Hanrahan Golf School aims to bring out the best in every player.

The school offers a private area dedicated to learning, with many tools for improving a player's game. Aside from the on-site instructors, you will also find a physical therapist as well as a mental coach to aid in your game.

The Hanrahan Golf School has heated indoor bays where the golfer can stay warm and the golf ball travels outside the full distance of your shot. The teaching bays are also equipped with video and launch monitors, which assist the golfer in their learning experience. Full-service club fitting and club repair is also available along with custom club fitting to match the golfer's club to his or her swing.

Golf is unique in that it is a game that is able to reach a wide range of people – regardless of experience, talent, age or gender. In the midst of this age of technology, golf is a refreshing and exciting way to connect with other people and enjoy a timeless sport that has long-since been a staple of our culture.
